FOUR REBELS throw down their books at the end of the day and race for the stage. Rehearsals for Stunt Talent Night have begun. A word, a grimace, or a small gesture relieves the strained nerves which result from hours of practicing. All the polishing pays off when the curtain rises and the Folksters ring out their songs. Textbooks are only one phase of the vibrancy of discovery. A Rebel profits from work with his fellow students. He learns by application the concepts of human behavior which he studies.

Classroom concepts grow

through student life

CRAMMED halls face harried guidance counselors during first days of school as worried students and parents rush to the guidance office to untangle and rearrange schedules.

Seventh period highlights opening days

Clanging locker doors, jangling bells, shuffling feet—these sounds heralded the start of school. Bewildered chatter of sophomores mixed with “welcome back” cries of juniors and seniors created a hubbub of excited voices.

New and returning Rebels found school lengthened to seven periods. The first days saw long lines of harried students stream in and out of the guidance office as schedules were corrected. The usually vacant bookroom became a center of activity as books were taken out of their summer slumber for another year of use. At the first assembly Rafael Reusch, the Chilean foreign exchange student, met his new classmates en masse. Also at this time, the Key Club initiated "The Spirit Award" to be presented to the most deserving class at the close of the school.

Cinderella and her evil step-brothers introduced the publications drive, which resulted in 846 subscriptions to 1,465 Rebels, the largest student body in Freeman's history.

Seniors won first place and $75 in the P.T.A.'s membership drive. Sophomores received $25.

Warm days of Indian summer faded. The whiff of burning leaves and the crisp chill of the early morning air told Rebels that it was Harvest Festival time.

BITING COLD, stiff fingers, miles of crepe paper—Homecoming! Marie Droste awaits a helping hand while constructing a map of flowers to carry out the theme “Around the World with Y-Teens.”

PENSIVE. Win Bailey and Nancy Lane survey the football field for possible heel catching holes as they prepare to cross the gridiron. Ecstatic, Ann Minnick rushes forward to embrace Mary Janes Brooks. Before crowning Ann as maid-of-honor, Principal Howard Mears pauses to grin at the pair. Crown bearer Jonathan Minnick proudly clutches his sister’s hand as the royalty rounds the field.

Key Club sub launches Homecoming

SHIVERING with cold as well as excitement, the 37 homecoming princesses, arrayed in bright fall-colored suits, anxiously await their turn to parade onto the football field during the half time of Freeman's homecoming game.

Though school was closed for a Virginia state teachers' meeting, the parking lot began to fill at eight o'clock. Rebels, clad in levis and sweatshirts, carried armloads of paper instead of books. Harvest Festival had arrived!

That evening during half time the usual popcorn seekers remained quietly in their seats. The hush burst into a chorus of clapping as Theresa Elder, the Harvest Festival Queen, mounted the second-place Medical Arts float. Key Club float took first place.

FRAMED by her co-workers, Becky Williams fastens paper flowers to the Harvest Festival float. Another FTA member, hidden by her wind-tossed hair, stands ready to aid Becky with scissors and tape.

INTROSPECTION. Pausing a moment out of the spotlight, three characters in the senior play consider their individual situations as the action of the play continues stage left. Ela Delahay (left) gazes

TRADITION
DICTATES that the Hi-Y lead the homerooms in collecting food to share with the Crippled Children's Hospital. The boxes are presented at the annual Thanksgiving assembly.

Mistaken identity sets stage for Charley's Aunt

While parents and teachers met to discuss individual students, the auditorium rang with peals of laughter as senior class thespians rehearsed Brandon Thomas' play, Charley's Aunt. Under the direction of Miss Marlise Bok, a comedy of the gay 1890's unfolded. Setting a new precedent, the play was limited to one performance to insure full student support.

The following week the curtain rose again to a medley of Thanksgiving music presented by the Glee Club. Supervised by the Hi-Y, the home-rooms collected abundantly filled baskets for the Crippled Children's Hospital.

SHADOWED by his uplifted hands, director Hunter Purdie conducts the Glee Club in preparation for the annual Thanksgiving assembly.

SMACK. Amy Spettigue (Sharon Culliksen) bestows a kiss upon Charley's aunt whom she supposes to be a dear elderly lady. Babs, (Robbie Maxwell) who is disguised as the chaperoning aunt, enjoys the pretense but finds it difficult to acquire graceful manners.

A SILHOUETTE. Against a backdrop of paper maché figures, art teacher Mrs. Eve Spillman gives a critique of a painting.

HALOED by spotlights, the Herald Angel watches the stage from the wings as she waits to announce that "a King is born."

Angels, gift boxes, snow herald Yuletide

Pens scratched intermittently . . . proctor's footsteps echoed through the cafeteria . . . a voice barked "Stop!" College Boards were in progress. DSF played host to these tests on December 3.

"Height 5 feet, 3 inches, headsize 23 inches." These words rang out in room 100 as Balfour representatives measured seniors for caps and gowns. "Operation graduation," which would terminate in June, had begun. Also at this time, juniors received their long awaited class rings.

For the first time the FBLA, under the direction of Mrs. Myrna Childress, presented Career Day. Seven meetings featured speakers from local colleges and employment agencies. These community leaders acquainted students with the opportunities of the business world.

The first dance of the year found sophomores frugging and boog-a-looing to the music of the Escorts. With the theme Snowbound, couples spent the evening in the company of Arctic decorations, including a papier maché polar bear.

At Christmas, homerooms presented food, clothes, and toys to underprivileged families. The drama department re-enacted the traditional Christmas story at the annual assembly. On December 23 Rebels rushed outside to greet the first snow flurries of the year and Christmas vacation.

PRELUDE. A couple traverses the gym before the sophomore dance. Surrounded by polar bears and penguins, the Rebs twisted and gyrated to the music of the Escorts, who performed on a bandstand simulating an igloo. Blue and white crepe paper lent a frosty mood to the gym.

ORIENTAL INTRIGUE captivates the imagination of sophomore Ben Vantrease during his study of the geographic aspects of the Far East. World geography, the course of countries and their civilizations, vivifies the characters and settings of stories he has read of mystery and adventure abroad.

TRESPASSER

During the rush of changing classes, a tired dachshund sneaked into the building. As the students worked diligently at their studies, the dog reclines in the vacant hall for a quiet rest.

MOD.

As Stunt-Talent Night draws to a close, lead George Coffey of the "Monkees" sings "Not Your Stepping Stone" while the judges compile their ballots and decide the winners.

DSF goes ape over Stunt-Talent Night

9:30 a.m.—Tense, bleary eyed Rebels rushed to class. Settling into their seats, they found students and even teachers missing! January snow storms had prohibited many from getting to school for exams.

A Tremelo of an electric guitar and a crash of drums heralded the beginning of Stunt-Talent Night. The show was patterned after the TV program, "The Monkees." Carla Schaaf, Key Club and Folksters won first prize.

DSF'S PTA sponsored American Field Service Night. Foreign exchange students from Japan, Chile, Greece and Austria living in the Richmond area discussed their impressions of the USA.

season pep rally. Rafael, from Santiago, Chile, lived with Jerry during his stay in Richmond. In January, after a crash course in Portuguese, Jerry left Douglas Freeman and journeyed to Brazil as an American Field Service sponsored foreign exchange student.

ANTICIPATION. Connie Martin and Jack Burnette chat while future King Bob Antonelli anxiously prepares to enter the gym.

11:30 p.m. Pulsating rhythms and the throbbing bass of the Jokers Wild echo through the green and blue gym. The prom nears its end.

Seniors create exotic land of Pharoahs

Golden stairs leading to an Egyptian temple formed a backdrop for the senior prom.

On the arms of their partners, girls in satin and net gowns formed a pinwheel. To the melody of "Moon River," the court glided into a 67.

Tension mounted as the petite, pre-school crownbearers entered the gym for the coronation. The announcement of the king and queen climaxed the event. Amid vibrating applause Ann Minick and Bob Antonelli crossed the bridge over the Nile and mounted their thrones. Jane Houston and Hank Barney reigned as attendants.

OVERWHELMED with emotion, Ann Minnick holds back tears as partner Chuck Jeffries kisses the new prom queen.

Final exams, 'operation graduation' climax last school week

What is a pooka? A pooka, in the person of Harvey, is the best friend of Ellwood P. Dowd, a cunning psychopath. An imaginary 6½ foot rabbit, he is also the central figure of "Harvey," the spring play. Juniors used backdrops from the play, tenements and store windows to create "Summer in the City" for their prom.

Gaily colored flags and venders displaying their wares created an international flavor at the AFS Fair. Club-sponsored booths raised money for another exchange student.

Exams and graduation filled the last week of school. Spring faded into summer, and soon it would be September again.

NECESSARY DARKNESS for a yearbook group shot sends two Rebels to a roof to cover gym windows. Students squeeze free moments from packed schedules to dedicate to organization projects—projects which demand a variety of mental and physical skills. Ideas which began in the classroom continue and expand when Freemanites work together. Through organizations, a Rebel becomes acquainted with people outside DSF—speakers with ideas to give and unfortunates with a need for people who care. A vibrant Rebel learns to live in and contribute to the world which awaits him.

SCA establishes new honor code, commission

Tempting aromas of freshly baked goods filled the air.

In a high pitched murmur of excitement, curious Rebels attended the AFS Fair. Clubs sponsored booths and donated all profits to the service.

SCA appointed a committee to conduct a critical study of present honor systems. From these studies, the committee designed a more workable honor code for DSF. The members then initiated an honor commission program. Assemblies acquainted Rebels with the new code which they later adopted.

In October the SCA conducted a leadership conference. Freeman representatives attended State and District conventions.

Idea days, copy days, make-ups and galley days—with this regular work schedule, the Commentator staff prepared DSF's tri-weekly publication.

In March, eight editors traveled to New York for the annual CSPA Convention, where the newspaper received a Medalist rating. The Commentator earned an All-American score from NSPA and a SIPA trophy.

Educator initiates new editorial features

Rustle of papers, clicks of typewriter keys, and murmured discussions characterized room 205 as staff members worked on fall and spring issues of the Educator.

Innovations in the spring issue included a new style editorial and an interview used as a feature article.

The staff read, discussed, and made written comments on each piece of submitted material. After illustrating a majority of the selections and designing a cover, the editors and junior assistants organized the magazine into a dummy and sent it to their publisher, Dietz Press, for completion.

Varsity members used this resolution in the first debate to acquaint sophomores with the mechanics of debating.

State-wide tournaments held on Saturday enabled members of the DSF team to affiliate with the National Forensic League, an Honor Society for debators and speakers. To be eligible for membership, a candidate must distinguish himself in competition and amass the required number of points.

Concentrating on organization, adaptability, and refutation, debators added long hours of research to perfect their skills. At the end of the year, the team held a dinner.

As afternoon came and fellow Freemanites headed homeward, FTA members visited the home of Carlisle Elliot, a fourth grade boy unable to attend school. The efforts of the members, who assisted Carlisle in his daily assignments, augmented the work of a professional tutor.

In addition to its main service project, the club made favors for the Cripple Children's Hospital and supervised the Ridge PTA nursery. They gave a Halloween party for Carlisle and a tea honoring the faculty during DSF's Teacher Appreciation Week.

Rebel orators win forensics tournament

Looking confidently at the audience, a lone figure presented his well rehearsed speech. Shoulders erect, eyes attentive, voices forceful, he and other students delivered poetry, prose, or public speaking at the Forensics Workshop.

A captivating mode of expression was the main objective as members met with adviser Mrs. Mildred Culpeper. Through practice, they developed proper enunciation, eye contact and enthusiasm.

Professionals reveal future careers in business

"Career Day is coming!" Bulletin boards on both floors announced the advent of the FBLA project.

On this day, students excused from classes flocked to the auditorium to hear speakers telling of the wide variety of job opportunities. The lectures provided Rebels with the chance to learn of salaries and fields of employment open to high school and college graduates.

At the FBLA Regional Convention held at MWC in April, the club received three first-place awards for the most outstanding scrapbook, bulletin board, and exhibit.

Homemakers entertain with games, ghost tales

Gleaming pumpkins, terrifying goblins, and dark-robed witches accompanied FHA members to the Halloween party for younger brothers and sisters of club members. Emitting squeals of delight, the children participated in the game of pin the head on the pumpkin and listened intently to eerie ghost stories.

Supporting a family of twelve at Christmas, the girls collected fifteen boxes of clothing and provided the family with a dinner.

The sale of candy apples at the AFS fair and a speaker on Greek foods highlighted the year. The FHA also conducted spring fashion shows.

Societies recognize outstanding students

All was silent except for the rustling of long blue robes. The tense hush was broken by a gasp of pleasure as an outstanding publication worker was tapped into Quill and Scroll. Candles flickered as eight seniors were sworn into the honorary society for high school journalists. The ceremony took place after a speech on "Why Writers Write" by Virginian-Pilot columnist, Guy Fridell. A second tapping for juniors and seniors was held in the spring.

The darkened auditorium accentuated the shining candles of Scholarship, Service, Leadership, and Character as the National Honor Society held two ceremonies in the spring. Exceptional seniors and juniors were recognized in separate morning assemblies.

Afterwards the organization, with the help of the teachers, conducted a short reception for each new member and his parents.

Oil painting by Day adorns DSF library

Old Yeager Place of Madison County, Virginia, was the subject of a new oil painting which graces the library. The Library Club donated the landscape, by Virginia artist Horace Day, to contribute to DSF beautification plans.

Members of the club, composed primarily of the library assistants, sold doughnuts to raise money for the project.

At regular meetings, the young librarians discussed problems which they encountered in their work.

CYL examines Buddhist, Hindu religious creeds

PSALMS and proverbs from the Bible inspire devotion in members

Wendy Schomo and Margaret Redmond while attending a service.

Each morning in a quiet corner of the school, a group of students gather for a short devotion before beginning a day of work and learning. Members of the Christian Youth League, meeting in the home ec. room, share the responsibility for conducting these meditations, which consist of passages from the Bible, prayers, or talks.

Recognizing the widespread belief in other religions, the league conducted studies in Hinduism and Buddhism.

Goodwill centers received copies of "Today's English Version of the Bible." donated as a CYL Easter project.

National Gallery, museums lure young artists

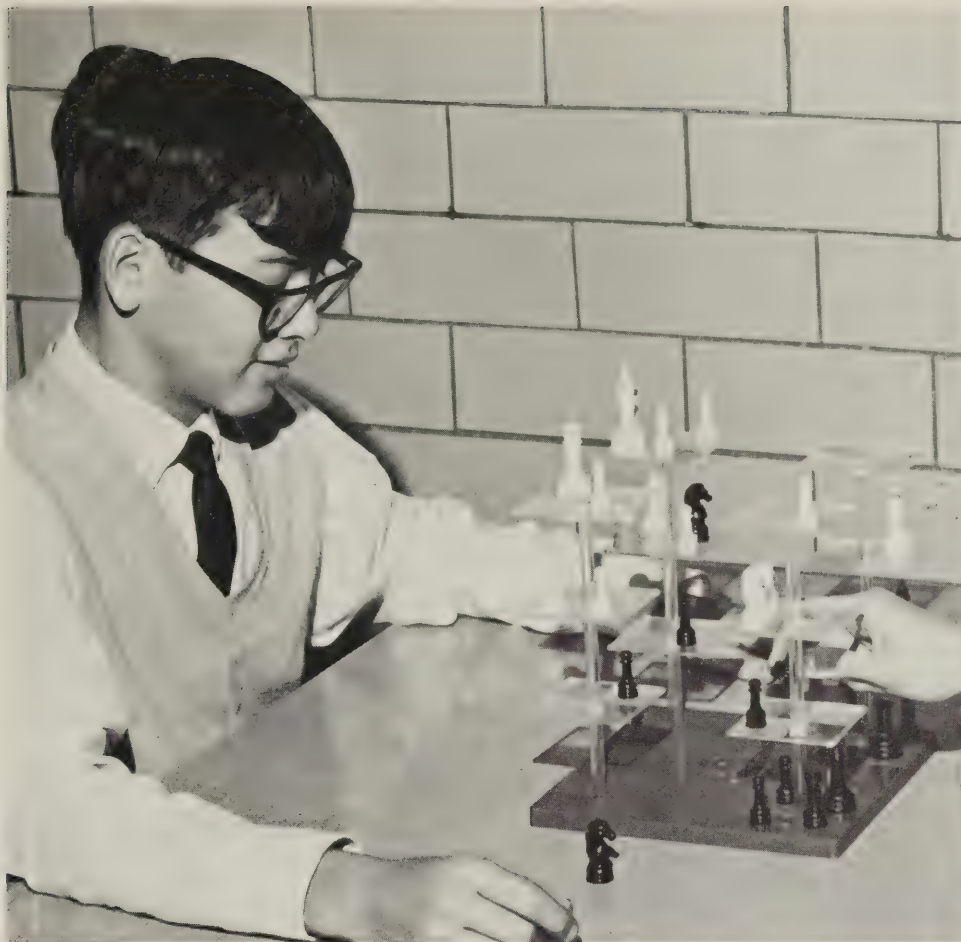

"All aboard!"

This was the call heard on April 22 when the Art Service Club traveled to Washington, D.C. Historic landmarks, the National Gallery, and other museums provided an interesting tour for the club.

Members made colorful decorations for the halls to welcome the Yuletide season. In addition, the artists prepared props for the senior play and French Night.

Art Service Club members donated their talents to an art booth at the American Field Service Fair and raised money for a new band uniform.

3-D chess sharpens skill

A player strategically placed his pawn. Checkmate! The triumphant cry echoed through the halls every Monday afternoon, reminding students that the Chess Club was in session.

Players extended a warm welcome to interested Freemanites. While striving to perfect their technique, the members often challenged each other in friendly competition. Representatives participated in interschool chess tournaments.

Cecil Hooker provided the organization with a new aspect of the regular chess board, two smaller elevated boards. This new complexity proved challenging to even the most skillful players.

Members also adopted a grandmother to whom they sent Christmas cards and an Easter basket of "goodies."

The triangle held their annual "Around the World" banquet. Each member contributed a dish associated with a foreign country.

Besides the paperback book store, members manned a free coat rack during all home games and proms. The girls also collected for the March of Dimes, adopted a poverty-stricken family, and worked with the Association for Retarded Children.

Members raised money for the band uniform fund and also sent a Freemanite to Girls' State.

Triangle III enjoyed programs which ranged from speakers on minerology and make-up application to entertainment by the Downbeats.

Key Club promotes traffic safety

Double Bubble, Teaberry, Cinnamint were some of the chewing gum brands which Key Clubbers encountered as they spent two Saturday mornings in December cleaning the school's interior. Spring weather inspired the club to dispose of trash and leaves which littered the campus.

The death of two west end youths prompted the Key Club to initiate a traffic safety program in November. Members pointed out area highway hazards and urged their correction. WTVR Channel 6 featured this drive on its "Richmond Today" show.

Key Clubbing went abroad as the DSF club adopted Karl Heinz Ronde, a young West German. Through the Christian Children's Fund, the boys sent letters and gifts to him.

"No!"

"Well then, how about a monogrammed sweater?"

These and similar questions echoed through the halls as Hi-Y members attempted to earn money needed for their service projects. The boys also sold football programs for all home games.

The club demonstrated their support for the war effort by again sponsoring a blood drive. Hi-Y members donated to YMCA missions, said grace before lunches, and contributed an outdoor activities board to the school.

Slave auction, contests highlight club banquet

"Going once, going twice, sold to the patrician in the purple-bordered toga!"

The ruthless slavemaster bellowed as tunic-clad captives looked around nervously. The traditional slave auction began the Latin Club Christmas Banquet. Slaves performed lowly tasks ranging from grape-rolling and hand wrestling contests to after-dinner dancing in a chorus.

Affiliated with the National JCL, the organization remained active with a Trojan Horse Sale, a skit in Stunt Talent Night and entries in the Latin Tournament. A banquet climaxed the year.

Groups enjoy pot-luck, tap actress

"Where's the food?"

This was the rallying cry at all Spanish National Honor Society meetings. Monthly gatherings, held at the homes of different members, combined business with a pot-luck dinner provided by all who attended. Meals brought an air of surprise as each member speculated on his fellow Rebels' cooking ability.

Tapping ceremonies for the French National Honor Society took an unusual turn as member Dave Smith marched past crowds gathered in the cafeteria. He walked upstairs to the auditorium to induct a flabbergasted Melanie Seyler, busy with senior play rehearsal, into the honors extension of the French Club.

Money-raising projects to provide for both a scholarship and a band uniform led to an activity filled year for the Spanish Club members.

After a Christmas-time fiesta which featured a piñata, the club presented a fundraising dinner. The event, complete with decorations and chile con carne, provided a Spanish atmosphere. Needy Cuban refugees in Richmond received used clothing collected at the dinner.

Guests from two Spanish speaking countries gave first-hand knowledge of life in Chile and Mexico. In Spanish, AFS student Rafael Reuche informed members of life in Chile. Christina Torre of Mexico performed native dances and explained aspects of the dress of her people.

No French in French Night? In an effort to recruit additional members, students in the French Club presented "Cyrano de Bergerac" in English. Set in the seventeenth century, the play is an heroic comedy about a swash-buckling cavalier—poet, portrayed by Mitchell Kahan.

Student speakers at meetings introduced three points of view on France. Josie Abady, former delegate of the World Youth Forum, talked about her trip to France. Elizabeth Szegetti, French exchange student at TJ, spoke on life in her native land. Slides of France from American exchange student Susie Hayes expanded native and tourist impressions presented by the two previous speakers.

"One, two, three, four, thud!" was a common sound at summer practices as the majorettes practiced twirling the baton for the coming school year.

Majorettes won third place in their first group competition at the NBTA State Contest. During the year, they competed in parade contests.

Majorettes added spirit to pep rallies with choreo-routines. During football games, they led the band at half time.

With the help of adviser Miss Carolyn Baker and "big brother" Jack Burnette, the majorettes "adopted" a mentally retarded child in Lynchburg.

Musicians raise money, purchase new uniforms

As drums pounded out the opening measures of "Dixie," the minds of Rebels in fifth period classes meandered from thoughts of English composition and geometric proofs to the strains of music from Freeman's marching band.

In addition to these impromptu classroom concerts, the band aroused spirit and enthusiasm at pep rallies and football games.

Replacing eleven-year-old uniforms, Rebel musicians purchased new ones with $7,200 raised through contributions from a car wash.

Mixed Chorus presents Christmas TV program,

THE STILL somber quality created by the shadowy openness of the band room contrasts with the brisk notes sung by the Chorus.

Senior members of the Glee Club are veteran television performers. For the third consecutive year Douglas Freeman's mixed chorus taped a program of Christmas music for a local television station.

The group also performed for the student body at the annual Christmas and Thanksgiving assemblies. In April, the Glee Club participated in the District Choral Festival. For the first time the Girls' Chorus entered in this competition.

In the spring the girls' and mixed choruses, along with other Henrico County vocal classes, visited Thomas Jefferson High School to attend a performance presented by Ohio's Cleveland Heights High School chorus.

PLAYERS strain for one final basket and a decisive two points. Even before the actual contest, athletics demand hours of grueling practice—practice for those who will star as well as for those who will wait on the bench. Physical and mental energy combine in an effort to outrun, out-throw, or outplay a skilled competitor. Vibrant competition requires the inner strength to endure the rigorous demands of victory or defeat. A Rebel athlete learns through mental and physical training to use his capabilities.

Coach Bill Long serves as gridiron gardener

Planting grass and battling the summer drought, Athletic Director Bill Long prepared the football field for opening practice.

Supervising recreational activities at DSF, Coach Jones aided interested trackmen in smoothing starts and improving endurance.

In her first year of instructing at Douglas Freeman, Miss Bonnie Hudson combined the JV with the varsity girls' basketball team. Miss Dot Jordan directed the cheerleaders.

Jon Kinzie aided Ronnie Jones in managing the cross country and track programs. Wayne Hoy supervised varsity baseball and junior varsity basketball. Ray Long assisted in football and guided boys' tennis.

Ernest Venturino led wrestling, and John Walker coached junior varsity football and baseball while assisting with varsity basketball. Jim Sangston instructed the basketballers and helped with the trackmen and gridmen.

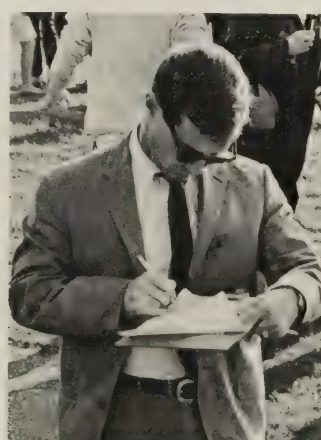

A TIME-OUT in a frantic game gives Coach Jim Sangston the opportunity to point out a weakness in a tight Lane defense to co-captain Hank Barney.

Gridmen produce 8-1-1 season

Long hours of practice, extending from the sweltering heat of August to the brisk weather of autumn, combined individual talents into a united Rebel team.

Using a balanced running attack and a staunch defense, DSF compiled an 8-1-1 record and placed second in the Capital District.

Huguenot played host to the Rebels in the season's opener. A recovered fumble and a blocked kick gave Freeman the edge in a 21-10 win.

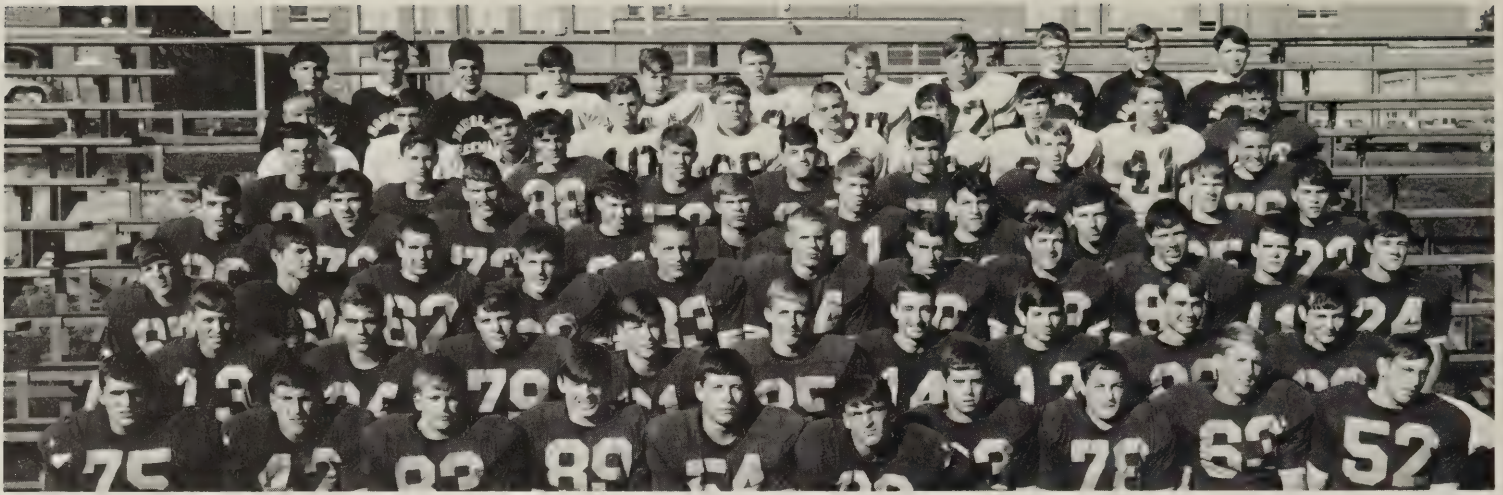

A HOLE in the Varina line enables Lee Graham (23) to gain a first down, as he cuts sharply around

Two players named to All- District team

Spirited by eight busloads of supporters, Rebels mounted two first-half drives only to be stopped twice within the Lane five. Strong Black

Knight passing doused victory hopes, and DSF fell 18-10.

A touchdown in the last seven seconds assured a 14-6 win over arch-rival Hermitage.

Strong defensive play, led by All-District lineman Dave Bailey, held an upset-minded TJ to a 7-7 tie.

All-District Larry Smith scored two touchdowns, overrunning Highland Springs for a Blue and Gray triumph. In the Harvest Festival game against Varina, Leigh Gray matched Smith's performance with 12 points of his own. Held scoreless, the Blue Devils topped 12-0.

Bill Luken's five touchdown passes sparked a 34-7 win over Henrico.

A recovered fumble initiated a crushing defeat of 24-6 for John Marshall in the season's closing game.

Rebels capture district third with 13-5 season

George Wythe crossed the James to the Freeman home court in the season's opener and shocked DSF by one point in two overtimes. Successive losses to Henrico and Lane prompted intensive practices during Christmas.

Wins over Thomas Jefferson, Varina, and John Marshall primed the Rebs for another meeting with the Warriors. In the final seconds Craig Barney sank probably the most dramatic two points of his three-year 1009-point scoring career as DSF edged the Warriors 56-54. Revenging their earlier loss, Freeman topped the Bulldogs 69-67 for third-place seeding in the Capital Tourney.

Deadlocked 59-59 as the clock ticked out, Rebel cagers faced overtime with Highland Springs in the first game of the Tournament. Outscoring DSF 7-2, the Springers dashed the Blue and Gray's hopes of a championsip.

Upset occurred when a Gray League team outscored their Blue League opponents in the finals of the intramural basketball tournament.

Matching their skills against the favored Hi-Y, the Trojans won 26-25 in over-time. The Blue League, composed of five teams, had been considered superior to the eight-team Gray League.

The intramural program, instructed by coaches Walker

Highlighting the season, DSF harriers captured the first seven places and downed JM by a perfect score, 15-50.

The Rebels recovered from a loss to Tucker to outpace their opponents in the next three meets. The year ended with a one-point loss to TJ.

Coach Jones reorganized the team into two groups so that the slower runners could compete in practice. A member of a slower squad changed to the faster one when he raised his team position at a meet.

At the Richmond Arena, Rebel Mark Pero ran to a first place in the 880 at the JC track meet. Winning the 60 and 100, Mike Fratkin pressed the thin-clads to a first in the Washington, D.C., Invitational. Freeman placed in the state indoor meet, where Larry Smith triumphed in the shotput with a 54'11" heave.

Girl cagers defeat Tucker twice during season

Elimination of a rule that limited dribbling to three consecutive times promised greater freedom and a more exciting game this season, but the Rebelettes failed to take advantage of this mobility and won only three games. The team ended the season with two wins against J. R. Tucker and another against Highland Springs.

The new coach, Miss Bonnie Hudson, in a move to best use available talent and inspire unity, replaced the junior varsity with a second string varsity. The policy of Friday afternoon practices and the games gave valuable experience to the team.

Matmen score area victory

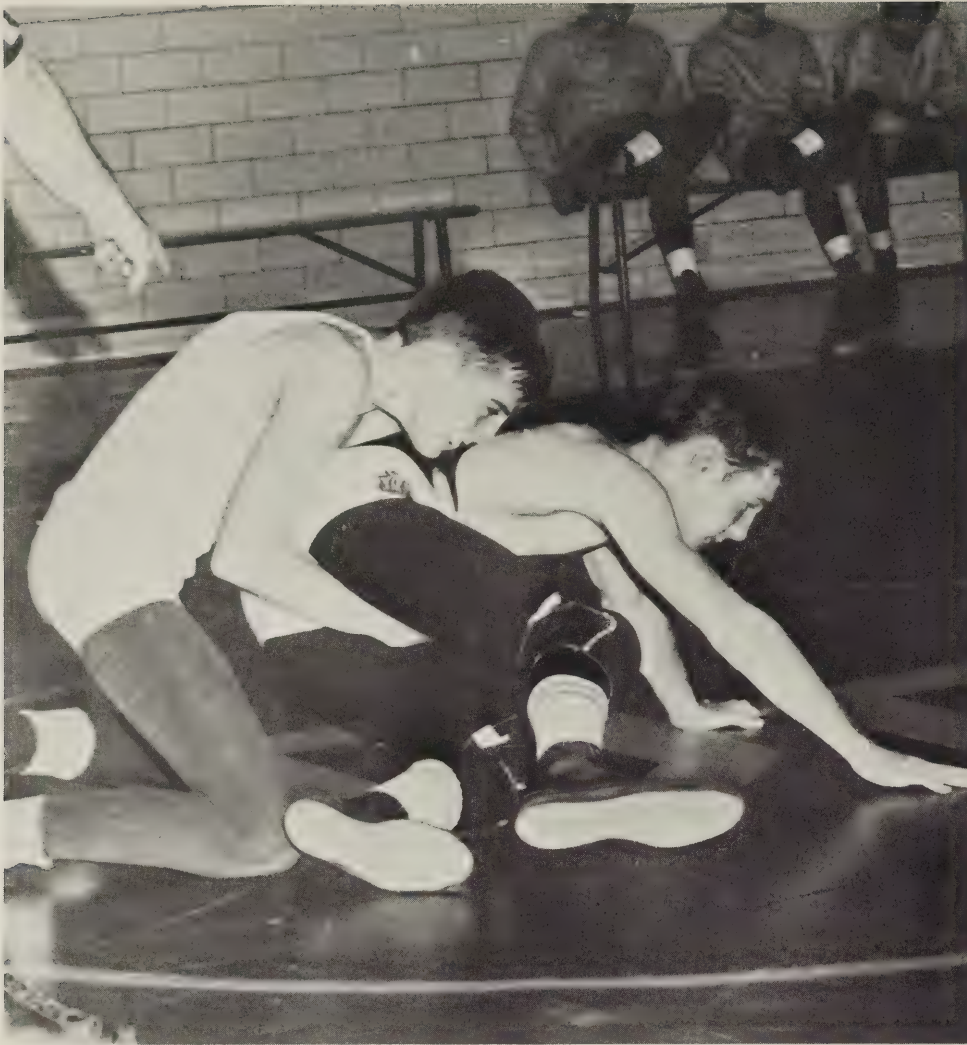

Starved wrestlers battled weight problems as they reported to opening practice.

With only four returning lettermen to bolster the middle weight classes, DSF relied on novice wrestlers to score a successful 8-2 record.

St. Christopher visited the Rebel mats in the first meet of the season. Sandy Booth's pin in the final match gave the grapplers a two-point edge.

At the Richmond Area Tournament, Reb grapplers tallied four firsts and four seconds to outscore runnerup Thomas Jefferson by twelve.

Regional Tournament host Ferguson notched six points over DSF for the regional championship. Tim Lough, Clark Eden, Bill Sanders, and Terry Kaufman placed first in the wrestle-off.

Harriers earn state laurels

Victorious for another season, Rebel trackmen carried off district honors, losing only one dual meet against Hermitage. It was at this event, however, that star sprinter Mike Fratkin tied the State record for the 100 at 9.6 seconds.

For the sixth straight year Douglas Freeman's thinclads won the St. Christopher Relays, gaining six out of fourteen first places.

Dominating the weight events and the short distances, Rebels captured the championship by edging Lane 57-52 at the District meet.

Freeman netted second at the State meet in Williamsburg. Mike Fratkin broke two State meet records, running a 9.8 second 100 and a 21.3 second 220. Al Kent took first place in the high and second in the low hurdles.

After promising start, Rebels falter to 5-10 season

Hindered by frequent spring showers, Freeman's glovemen practiced late into the afternoon, on a field which alternated from mud to ice. A fast approaching season spurred Rebels to strain for the opening game with TJ.

The second game found DSF defeating district champion Tucker. Tigers raised a 3-0 lead in the fourth inning, but Rebel action came to bat and matched their score. In the sixth, Mark Wilson and Jack Thomas crossed the plate to give DSF a two-run margin.

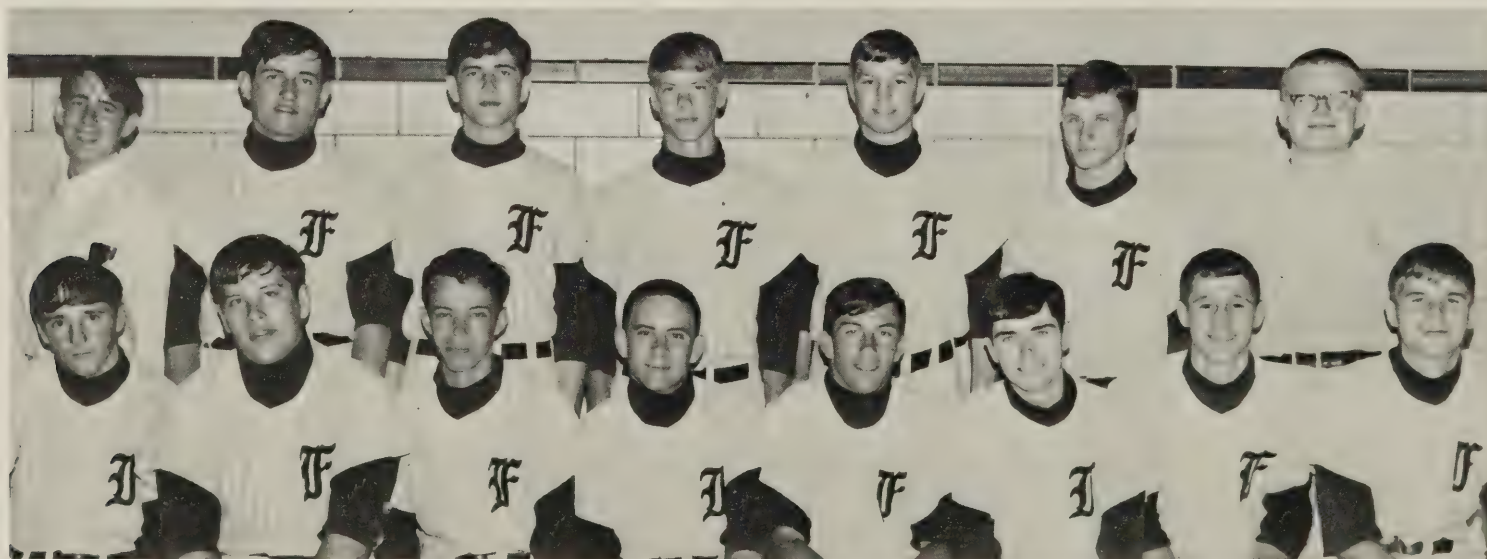

A hitting spree with Varina aided the Rebels who won by a score of 6-5. In a rematch against Tucker, tough Tiger pitching allowed only two hits and blanked the Blue and Gray 6-0. Ray Dillard hurled a shutout against Henrico, while Hank Barney hit two singles and scored twice.

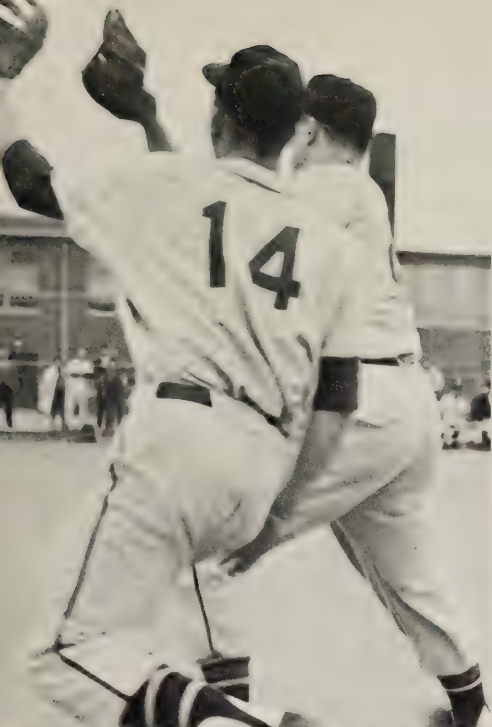

Douglas Freeman amassed 4 runs in the fourth inning and beat Hermitage for the second time to capture the year's last win.

Teeing off and shooting pars Blue and Gray golfers mastered the wooded fairways at their home course, Richmond Country Club. Traveling to Chantilly National Country Club in Fairfax, the squad competed against other teams from all over Virginia and rated fifth in the state.

Edging out Meadowbrook by one point, the Rebel's first meet was their closest. In the following competition, the linksmen swamped Thomas Jefferson and took 23 points out of a possible 27.

Meadowbrook challenged the Rebels for the second time, and in this match Lee Brown tied area champion Lanny Wadkins. Wins against Huguenot and Thomas Jefferson again gave Freeman a total for the season of six wins and no defeats.

Visual, audio aids inspire Rebels

Captivated by the aged voice of Robert Frost, junior English students listened to the melodic beauty of his poetry. The recitations were a part of the film, "Robert Frost: A Lover's Quarrel with the World."

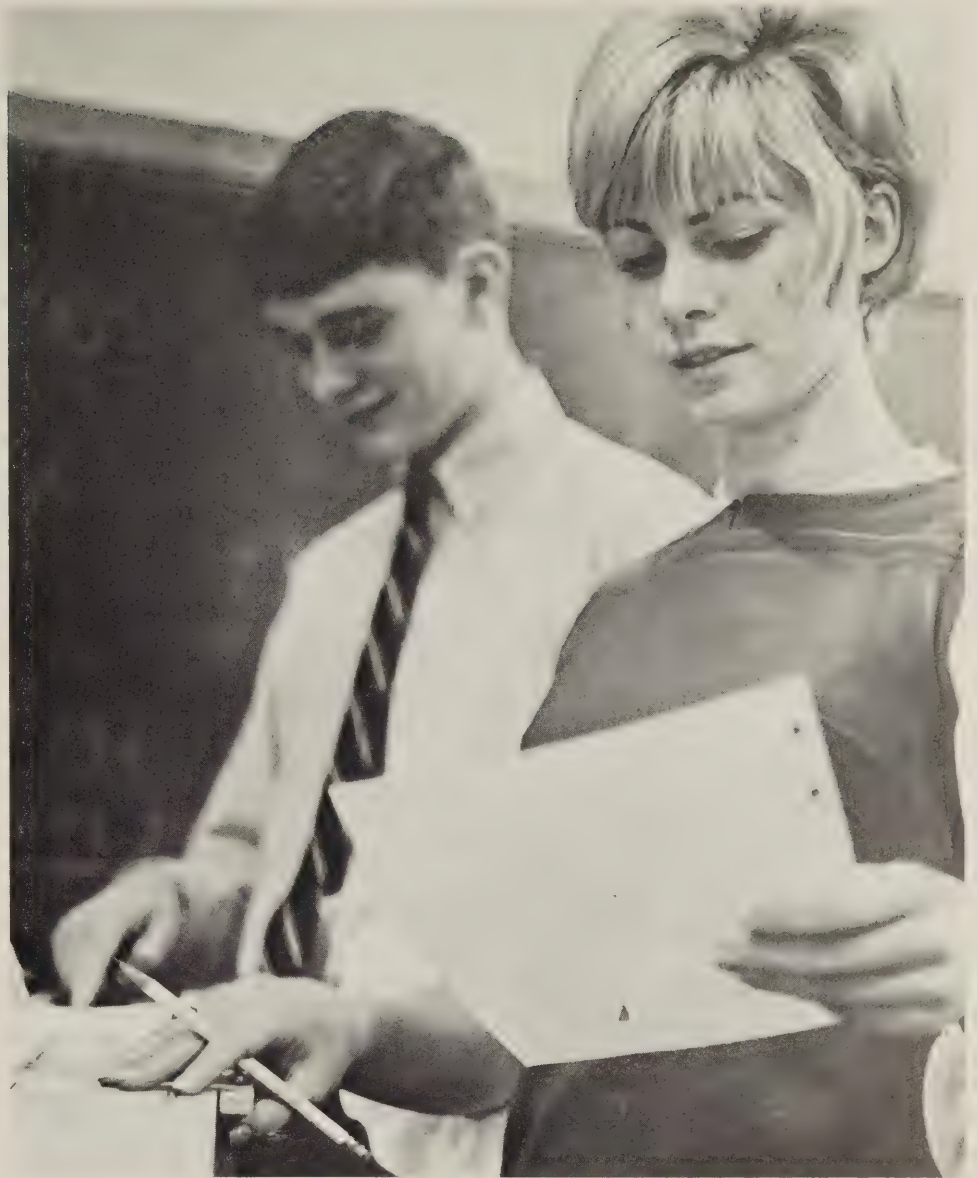

A representative from a hearing aid company inspired the students in Mrs. Mildred Culpeper's speech class to use audiometers. Each student used the instrument to gauge the acuteness of his hearing.

Mrs. Betty Smith's journalism class and Mrs. Culpeper's speech class worked in conjunction. Speech students presented talks to the journalism students, who in turn, prepared a critical analysis of the speeches. These aids enabled both classes to learn about the correct articulation, voice quality, and preparation in presenting verbal ideas clearly.

Students explore math opportunities

Is there mathematics in music, theology, or television? Mr. John Plummer amazed his students with the many fields in which math plays an important role. Reports on contributors in math and the mathematical principles employed in other subjects demonstrated learning in action.

With the expansion to seven periods, two new subjects were opened to students: calculus and consumer math. Calculus offered accelerated students an additional college preparatory course.

CALCULATING the solution to an algebra problem, Melanie Seyler transfers information from her paper to an over-sized slide rule. Greg Hustis waits to audit her answer.

MATH DEPARTMENT. FRONT ROW: Mrs. Jeanette Hardin, Geometry, Algebra. Mrs. Henrietta Smith, Algebra, Geometry. Mrs. June Dickens, Algebra, Survey Math, Advanced Algebra and Trigonometry; Senior Class, Mathematics National Honor Society. Miss Nancy Moorefield, Algebra, Geometry. SECOND ROW: Mrs. Louise Brock, Survey Math, Geometry, Algebra; SCA. Mrs. Rebecca Barnes, Geometry, Algebra. Mr. James Sangston, General Math, Consumer Math; Coach. Mr. John Plummer, Calculus and Analytical Geometry, Algebra, Mechanical Drawing; Hi-Y.

Biologists study growth of bacteria

White clouds of cotton settled on a milky suspension as biology students recorded the growth of bacterial cultures. Peering into petri dishes, the young biologists found the blue-green and yellow of mold contaminants. Aided by microscopes, the class studied the make-up of these bacteria.

Chemistry students, hidden behind newly-acquired goggles, painstakingly recorded measurements related to experiments. Using this data in formulas, and associating math concepts with their work, the student scientists formed theories concerning the various chemical reactions.

GOGGLES to shield the eyes from possible reactions are used this year for the first time in DSF labs. Bill Parks, Greg Robinson, and Blair Mitchell perform an experiment to determine the heat of condensation of alcohol.

SCIENCE DEPARTMENT. FRONT ROW: Mrs. Barbara Moncure, Biology. Mrs. Dale Brittle, Biology. Mr. John Kinzie, Biology; Coach. Mr. Claiborne Leonard, Physics; Science Club. Seniors write county textbook

A Chilean student supervising Henrico schools? AFS student Rafael Reusch and five other seniors taking government represented DSF at County Government Day. High school pupils took over executive positions and learned their duties.

Teachers supplemented routine classwork with electronic equipment. Mr. William Taliaferro's American History classes viewed the Educational Television program "Issues and Ideas." With the opaque projector, Mr. Hugh Fraser traced U.S. Naval development.

Four students of Miss Ada Land's government class compiled a textbook on county government. This pamphlet will be used to supplement government texts.

ILLUSTRATING his report on Robert E. Lee, Gordon Robertson presents his findings to Mrs. Edna Meadows' U.S. History class.

French; French Club, French National Honor Society. Miss Marlise Bok, German; German Club, Drama. Miss Carolyn Baker, French; Majorettes.

A NOVEL is the subject of an animated discussion between Blenda Woodard and her classmates. Mrs. Pauline Robertson's third-year French class studied Le Grand Meaulnes during a course in French literature.

Spanish IV 'travels' to far lands

Have you ever been to Mexico or Chile? Students in the Spanish IV class took a vicarious trip to these and other foreign countries as monthly speakers showed slides accompanied by talks.

DSF added a Latin V course to its curriculum. Rebels made an intensive study of Greek and Roman literature and acquired a speaking knowledge of Italian.

French IV established a precedent by reading complete, modern French works. Previously, the class made survey studies of french literature.

Business expands its curriculum

Click—click—click— sounds of moving typewriter keys and busy pencils were characteristic noises drifting from the business classrooms into the halls. Economic Business Problems and second-year Bookkeeping were added to the previous courses of Typing, Shorthand, General Business, and Office Practice.

Freemanites in Bookkeeping and second-year Typing wrote checks and invoices for fictitious companies. Law, advertising, and the operation of office machines were some of the facets of business life explored in office practice.

WITH PENCIL BALANCED behind his ear and fingers poised above the keys of the adding machine, senior Randy Linkous flips the page of his bookkeeping workbook as he prepares to add a balance sheet column.

BUSINESS DEPARTMENT: Mrs. Myrna Childress, Shorthand, Typing, FBLA. Miss Marian Breedon, Bookkeeping, Shorthand, Office Practice; Chairman of Business Department; HISTORIAN, Tories. Miss Dorothea Moore, Typing; Downbeats, Quill and Scroll, HISTORIAN. Mr. Ernest Venturino, Bookkeeping, Economic Business Problems, Typing; Coach, Key Club. Mr. John Briggs, Bookkeeping, General Business; ICT, Coach.

Lecture links impressionistic music, art styles

Was Mrs. Pitts lost?

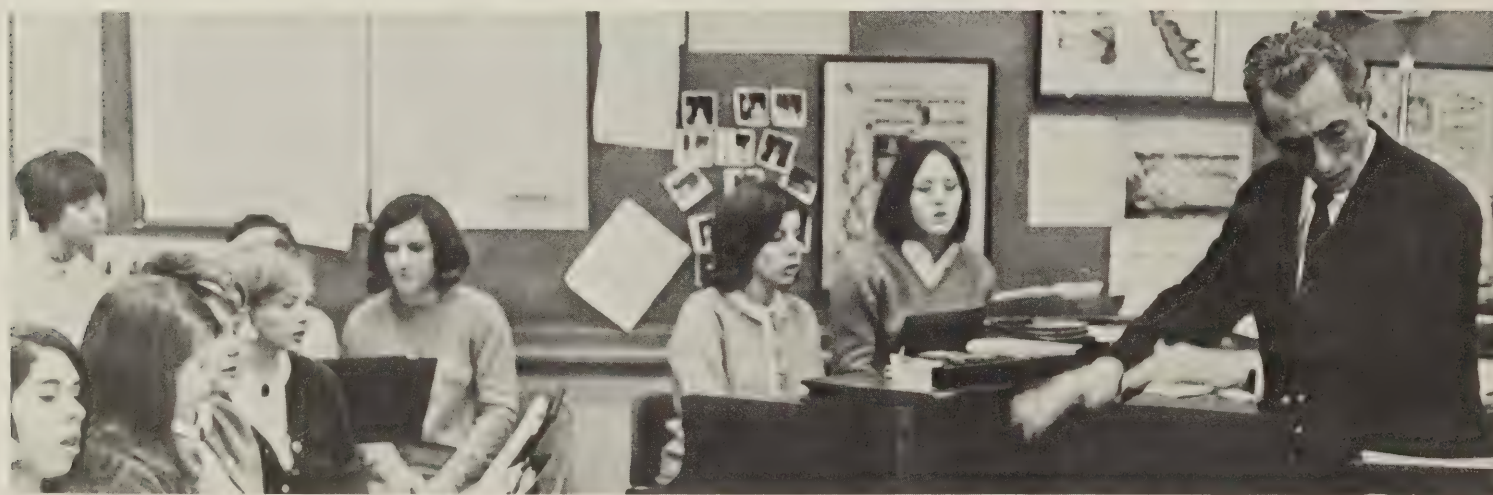

For a clearer understanding of the relationship between the two modes of expression, art teacher Mrs. Ora Lee Pitts explained to the appreciation class impressionistic painting and its similarities to impressionistic music.

Rebel musicians participated in the District Band Festival at Tucker and the District Chorus Festival at Meadowbrook. Enjoying the performance of a professional group, they attended a concert by the Richmond Symphony Orchestra.

VIGOROUSLY transmitting the enthusiasm he feels for his music,

Hunter Purdie signals an increase in volume to the tenors, indicates a softening of tone to the sopranos, and cues a forceful entry.

Creative Rebs attend county Art Guild

Giraffes and elephants frolicked through the art room as Rebel artists bent wire to design paper maché animals. The students expressed themselves individually with these projects for Christmas.

Douglas Freeman sent four outstanding young artists to the Art Guild. Sponsored by W. R. Cheatham, the Guild took field trips to museums and local art exhibits.

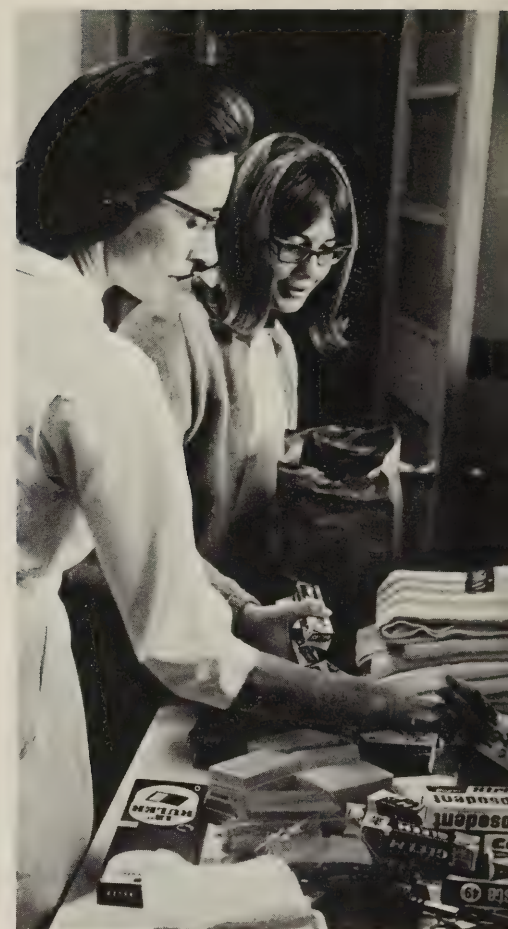

Stressing background and history as well as practice, art students observed movies on the lives of famous artists.

UNDER THE TUTELAGE of Mrs. Ora Lee Pitts, student art teacher Mrs. Joyce Simmons plans a lecture about techniques used in plaster sculpture.

SCRATCH. The blade of an artist's knife makes contact with an unfinished sculpture. Intent on his model Nick Parham is oblivious to both the quiet sound of his blade and the hubbub of the busy art room.

SORTING the new supplies, Mrs. Mullins and Louise Sargent prepare a Red Cross box.

Teachers man infirmary

It was a major disaster. The beds were over crowded, a case of appendicitis was suspected, and one panicky patient insisted he swallowed mercury. To all teachers who substituted for clinic nurse Dora Mullins during her absence, the day was an unforgettable experience.

Medical Arts Club members obtained practical experience by working in the clinic during their study halls.

MISERABLE with the flu, senior Todd Hyman patiently waits for his sub-normal temperature to rise.

NUTRITION. Mrs. Sanger's Home Ec. group discusses the importance of the four basic food groups.

TESTING for the proper consistency, Cindy Piedmont checks the casserole that she and Janice Thomas have baked.

Girls model creations during fashion assembly

Hair styling made a new wave at DSF.

A beautician from a local salon cut and styled hair in the home economics department as a grooming demonstration. Other first-hand advice came from a county nurse, a cosmetologist, and a minister, on subjects varying from marriage to baby care.

Girls in first-year Home Ec. made skirts and blouses while second and third-year students advanced to wool suits and dresses. Third-year students studied the etiquette of marriage; and later, learning the art of cooking meats, they enjoyed an occasional steak.

The year ended with a fashion show assembly which gave the girls a chance to model their own creations.

A CONFERENCE with student Debbie Phelps enables Mr. Briggs to determine benefits gained from her studies.

PRESENTATION. Allan Kahan accepts a check for new band uniforms from Mike Strickland, president of VICA, the club for ICT students.

ICT benefits by vocational experience

As most Rebels studied until mid-afternoon, ICT members abandoned textbooks for such jobs as nurses aids, draftsmen, photographer's assistants, and mechanics.

These students studied in the classroom during the morning, taking the combined ICT program—a general business class and self-study of the student's occupation.

During the afternoon Mr. Briggs observed while pupils learned the skills of their trades as apprentices to professionals. Returning to class, they prepared a record of the knowledge acquired.

Industrial Arts enters projects at local exhibit

Plan now for your future!

Architectural students in Mr. Henry Wheeler's mechanical drawing classes designed blueprints for ideal homes. From his diagrams each member of the class constructed a scale model of his future home.

Students in the shop, under the direction of Mr. Richard Anthony, built keels, hulls, and transoms and assembled them into boats of all types. They also make a variety of other useful items such as lamps, tables, and footstools.

Both industrial arts sections combined their efforts for the entire year and presented their products at an exhibit held at the Arena in May for Henrico County high schools.

EXACT MEASUREMENTS. Mr. Richard Anthony stresses to Arthur Oggins and Thomas Kostenbauder

the need for precision and accuracy as he measures the transom of a rowboat built in the shop.

GEOMETRIC constructions in mechanical drawing pose problems for Larry Smith. Mr. Henry Wheeler searches through the textbook to find other examples of similar configurations that will be of aid to this Rebel.

Sophs depict concepts in folk dances

Weegis and heel-toe polka became familiar words to sophomore girls as they studied folk dances of various countries. Students expressed their opinions of life today by presenting original modern dances.

Boys' gym classes stressed the development of the body to its full potential. Each boy strived for outstanding achievement in football, baseball, soccer, and five-star track.

Climaxing the year's physical education program, the boys' and girls' classes collaborated to present the annual Gym Show.

RAISING his arms for balance and extra distance, Petey Wood slams the soccer ball to his teammate Kenny Smith. Sophomores developed skill and agility through team sports.

PHYSICAL EDUCATION DEPARTMENT. FRONT ROW: Miss Bonnie Hudson, Mr. Ray Long, Miss Connie Rawls, Mr. John Walker.

FRAMED

Keeping the lawn neat and trim is one of his many duties.

Kitchen staff uses modern culinary techniques

Forming an assembly line of trays, hungry Freemanites moved through the lunch line receiving the components of a nutritious, well-balanced meal.

Cafeteria workers began their daily kitchen tasks in the early part of the morning. Mrs. Barbara Ranson and her staff of eight prepared 470 lunches each day, with pizza and spaghetti topping the list of favorite meals.

Seven on the janitorial staff, headed by Bernard Harris, worked in two night shifts to keep the buildings and grounds in good condition.

SILENCE. A bell rings and crowds of students empty the packed classrooms and surge into the noisy halls—now reverberating with the sounds of DSF. The tumult of his vibrant surroundings startles a Freemanite and forces added pressures upon him. He realizes the necessity to escape the pulsating crowds and filled classrooms. Each Rebel needs time to search his inner strengths for the impetus to compete. He looks into his resources and finds the renewed determination to contribute to the vibrant activity of his environment.

Sophomores find new opportunities, become active part of DSF

Mike Harman, President

Carolyn Orser, Vice President

Pam Schuelke, Secretary

Edmond Smith, Treasurer

A whirl of new faces and opportunities greeted the class of 1969 as they entered DSF in the fall. But sophomores quickly traded old elevator passes for definite places in many school activities.

Sophs found life as Freemanites exciting and rewarding. Bringing fresh ideas and a willingness to work, they assumed responsibilities in clubs and committees. Junior varsity sports provided experience for athletic sophomores.

The largest class in the history of Douglas Freeman completed its first duty by electing its officers and council. Cheerleader Susie Spears represented the class at the Harvest Festival. Led by president Mike Harman the youngest Rebels set December 17 for their dance, "Snowbound."

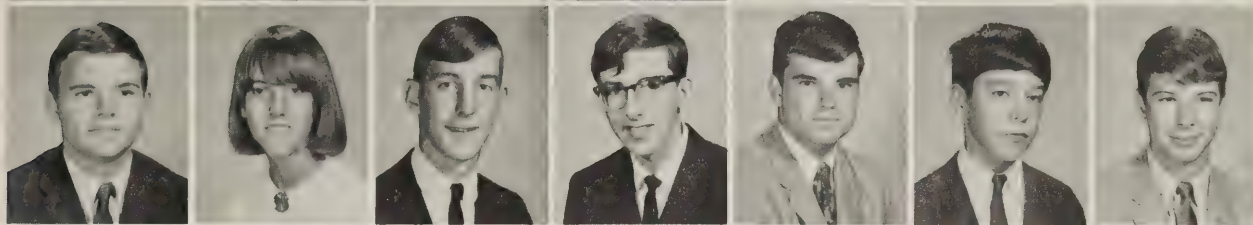

By spring, the fledgling Rebels had fitted themselves into the spirit of senior high school and were proud to call themselves Freemanities.

Juniors make diverse contributions to all phases of DSF life

Returning juniors found the DSF halls no longer frightening but welcome and friendly. Participating in clubs, publications, and varsity sports, the juniors played an active part in life at Douglas Freeman.

The class council, under the leadership of president Greg Hustis, effected a raise in class dues to finance the prom and won $25 from Harvest ticket sales.

In December, after receiving newly designed rings, the juniors and the SCA as co-sponsors began making plans for Stunt-Talent Night.

The second semester added new experiences for many juniors: National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Tests, College Boards, term papers, and science projects.

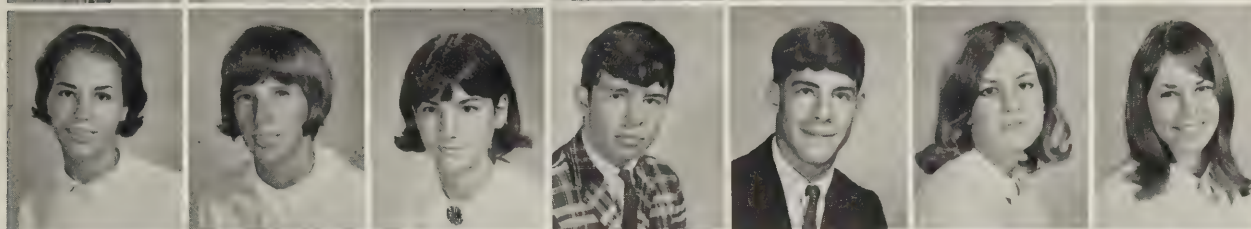

Late in April, eager prom workers transformed the gym into a "Summer In The City."

Leadership, goals prepare upperclassmen for rigors of future life

Bill Sanders, President

Mark Wilson, Vice-President

Liz Tarpley, Secretary

Ann Minnick, Treasurer

Seniors returned with sun-streaked hair and tanned faces to tackle greater responsibility and positions of higher leadership. These nine months would culminate a twelve-year dream.

SCA Big Brothers and Sisters offered helping hands to bewildered sophomores, while class enthusiasm bolstered seniors to win first place and $75 in the PTA membership drive. Later in October, President Bill Sanders presented to Mr. Purdie a class gift of two band uniforms.

After the rush of Harvest Festival, the senior players presented a rollicking comedy, "Charley's Aunt."

Term papers, college applications, and SAT tests filled December with a surge of activities. By March, Rebels were ready for the majesty of "Nile By Night," the senior prom.

AS A MEMBER of the community, a Reb learns to live in an atmosphere unguarded by teachers, books, and DSF. Into this world, a Rebel takes vibrant desires for discovery, participation, and involvement which he develops at Douglas Freeman. At an after-school job or a shopping trip, Freemanites play an important part in the active competition of community life. As customers and as employees, they develop a wider viewpoint of the world of people.

Hallmarks of a Heritage

Each of these symbols has it's own significance. Two are indicative of Biggs exclusive appointment to reproduce the fine antique pieces of Old Sturbridge Village and the Thomas Jefferson patterns at Monticello. The Connoisseur seal, Biggs own, stands as a symbol of a genuine hand-crafted Biggs reproduction—identifying it as being an exact replica of a priceless original and absolutely correct in every detail of design, form, outline and proportion.

ELECTRICITY: MUSCLE OF INDUSTRY

Behind the great industrial might of America stands a "giant workman" — electric energy. It would require the muscle energy of 70 men working 40 hours a week for one whole year to equal 10,000 kilowatt hours of electricity — less than the average annual consumption of two Vepco residential customers. Yes, electricity is the "muscle" behind our power and prosperity.

For all the people the computer puts out of jobs, it can put more people into new ones.

Jobs that right now go begging simply because the men and women with the brains for computer programming don't bother to get the training.

It's an awful waste, since chances are most high school graduates have the brains already. If you think you're one of them, you can prove it by passing ECPI's free aptitude test.

Then you can get the training from ECPI. (There are over 70 ECPI training centers, so one should be near you.)

We have the latest IBM computers for you to learn on. We have the textbooks for you to learn from. We have a faculty of tough professionals to make sure you do the learning.

It won't be easy. It won't be cheap. And you won't get your diploma just because you've paid your tuition and sat through the classes.

But when you do graduate, you'll be a qualified computer programmer. You'll be ready to start working in a field that pays experienced programmers double or triple what you may be earning now.

If that's not enough, remember that the one person who can't be replaced by a computer is the person who runs one.

Balfour supplies rings, announcements, robes

The L. G. Balfour Company plays an important part in the lives of Freemanites. A sophomore first meets the Balfour Company when Mr. Charles Motley, their representative, measures ring sizes and takes class ring orders. Each year Mr. Motley delivers rings to the juniors, while seniors see him to order calling cards, announcements, and caps and gowns.

THE ARRIVAL of class rings formally initiates the junior into Douglas Freeman. The bonds between classmates are more closely tied as each expresses his pride in this symbol of achievement—the ring by Balfour.

Vibrant Rebels prepare to tackle wonder of adulthood

New ideas, competitive spirit, and eager participation spring from the vibrancy of Douglas Freeman. Peaks of high school experience temper the Rebel for experiences yet to come. He sees with wonder, but he is confident.
